

Northwest Aviation Association Presents

Fly2Fun

Connecting Fly-In Destinations, Services & Suppliers to the Active Aviator

What is Fly2Fun?

Pilots use their airplanes to bring tourism dollars and economic vibrancy to the communities to which they fly. Whether it's a meal, fuel, shopping or a vacation, when pilots land at an airport, they leave dollars behind.

But many tourism-based businesses, airport owners or visitor/business groups do not realize this vital economic connection.

Fly2Fun,

an aviation tourism event scheduled for May 21-22, 2005
at the Linn County Fair & Expo
in Albany, Oregon (adjacent to the Albany Airport), will bring these groups together,
along with the pilots who seek their next destination.

Pilots travel...

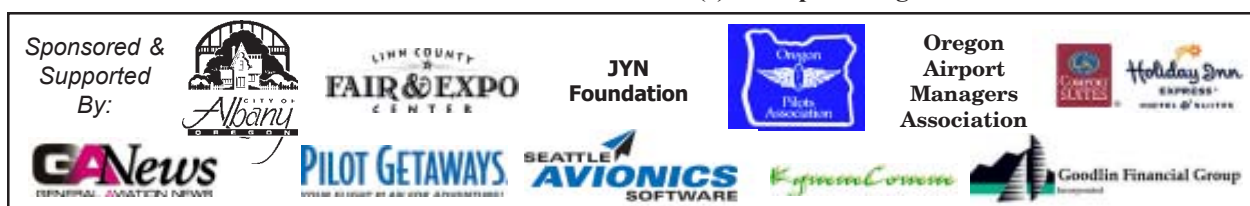

- 74% of pilots take vacations outside their home city or region each year
- over 12% of pilots take six or more vacations a year
- 35% take vacations using general aviation aircraft

Upon arriving at their destination, pilots want rental cars, lodging, fuel and food as well as activities for them and their families.

Aviation tourism is a new, exciting concept that will help spur economic growth for Northwest airports and their communities.
